Story of the DoorMr. Utterson the lawyer was a man of a rugged countenance that wasnever lighted by a smile; cold, scanty and embarrassed indiscourse; backward in sentiment; lean, long, dusty, dreary andyet something eminently human beaconed from his eye; something indeed which never found its way into his talk, butwhich spoke not only in these silent symbols of the after-dinnerface, but more often and loudly in the acts of his life. He wasaustere with himself; drank gin when he was alone, to mortify ataste for vintages; and though he enjoyed the theater, had notcrossed the doors of one for twenty years. But he had an approvedtolerance for others; sometimes wondering, almost with envy, atthe high pressure of spirits involved in their misdeeds; and inany extremity inclined to help rather than to reprove. "I incline to help rather than to reprove. "I incline to help rather than to reprove." In this character, it was frequently his fortune to be the last reputable acquaintance andthe last good influence in the lives of downgoing men. And tosuch as these, so long as they came about his chambers, he nevermarked a shade of change in his demeanour. No doubt the feat was easy to Mr. Utterson; for he wasundemonstrative at the best, and even his friendship seemed to befounded in a similar catholicity of good-nature. It is the markof a modest man to accept his friendly circle ready-made from thehands of opportunity; and that was the lawyer's way. His friendswere those of his own blood or those whom he had known thelongest; his affections, like ivy, were the growth of time, they implied no aptness in the object. Hence, no doubt the bond thatunited him to Mr. Richard Enfield, his distant kinsman, thewell-known man about town. It was a nut to crack for many, whatthese two could see in each other, or what subject they could findin common. It was reported by those who encountered them in their Sunday walks, that they said nothing, looked singularly dull andwould hail with obvious relief the appearance of a friend. Forall that, the two men put the greatest store by these excursions, counted them the chief jewel of each week, and not only set asideoccasions of pleasure, but even resisted the calls of business, that they might enjoy them uninterrupted. It chanced on one of these rambles that their way led themdown a by-street in a busy quarter of London. The street wassmall and what is called quiet, but it drove a thriving trade onthe weekdays. The inhabitants were all doing well, it seemed and all emulously hoping to do better still, and laying out thesurplus of their grains in coquetry; so that the shop fronts stoodalong that thoroughfare with an air of invitation, like rows ofsmiling saleswomen. Even on Sunday, when it veiled its moreflorid charms and lay comparatively empty of passage, the streetshone out in contrast to its dingy neighbourhood, like a fire in aforest; and with its freshly painted shutters, well-polishedbrasses, and general cleanliness and gaiety of note, instantly caught and pleased the eye of the passenger. Two doors from one corner, on the left hand going east theline was broken by the entry of a court; and just at that point acertain sinister block of building thrust forward its gable on thestreet. It was two storeys high; showed no window, nothing but adoor on the lower storey and a blind forehead of discoloured wallon the upper; and bore in every feature, the marks of prolongedand sordid negligence. The door, which was equipped with neitherbell nor knocker, was blistered and distained. Tramps slouchedinto the recess and struck matches on the panels; children keptshop upon the steps; the schoolboy had tried his knife on themouldings; and for close on a generation, no one had appeared todrive away these random visitors or to repair their ravages. Mr. Enfield and the lawyer were on the other side of theby-street; but when this companion had replied in the affirmative. "It is connected in mymind," added he, "with a very odd story." "Indeed?" said Mr. Utterson, with a slight change of voice, "and what was that?" "Well, it was this way," returned Mr. Enfield: "I was cominghome from some place at the end of the world, about three o'clockof a black winter morning, and my way lay through a part of townwhere there was literally nothing to be seen but lamps. Streetafter street and all the folks asleep--street after street, allighted up as if for a procession and all as empty as a church--till at last I got into that state of mind when a man listens and begins to long for the sight of a policeman. All atonce, I saw two figures: one a little man who was stumping alongeastward at a good walk, and the other a girl of maybe eight orten who was running as hard as she was able down a cross street. Well, sir, the two ran into one another naturally enough at thecorner; and then came the horrible part of the thing; for the mantrampled calmly over the child's body and left her screaming onthe ground. It sounds nothing to hear, but it was hellish to see. It wasn't like a man; it was like some damned Juggernaut. I gave a few halloa, took to my heels, collared my gentleman, and broughthim back to where there was already quite a group about thescreaming child. He was perfectly cool and made no resistance, but gave me one look, so ugly that it brought out the sweat on melike running. The people who had turned out were the girl's ownfamily; and pretty soon, the doctor, for whom she had been sentput in his appearance. Well, the child was not much the worse, more frightened, according to the Sawbones; and there you mighthave supposed would be an end to it. But there was one curiouscircumstance.
had taken a loathing to my gentleman at firstsight. So had the child's family, which was only natural. Butthe doctor's case was what struck me. He was the usual cut anddry apothecary, of no particular age and colour, with a strongEdinburgh accent and about as emotional as a bagpipe. Well, sir,he was like the rest of us; every time he looked at my prisoner, Isaw that Sawbones turn sick and white with desire to kill him. Iknew what was in his mind, just as he knew what was in mine; and killing being out of the question, we did the next best. We toldthe man we could and would make such a scandal out of this asshould make his name stink from one end of London to the other. If he had any friends or any credit, we undertook that he shouldlose them. And all the time, as we were pitching it in red hot, we were keeping the women off him as best we could for they wereas wild as harpies. I never saw a circle of such hateful faces; and there was the man in the middle, with a kind of black sneering coolness--frightened to, I could see that--but carrying itoff, sir, really like Satan. 'If you choose to make capital outof this accident,' said he, 'I am naturally helpless. Nogentleman but wishes to avoid a scene,' says he. 'Name yourfigure.' Well, we screwed him up to a hundred pounds for thechild's family; he would have clearly liked to stick out; butthere was something about the lot of us that meant mischief, andat last he struck. The next thing was to get the money; and wheredo you think he carried us but to that place with thedoor?--whipped out a key, went in, and presently came back withthe matter of ten pounds in gold and a cheque for the balance on Coutts's, drawn payable to bearer and signed with a name that Ican't mention, though it's one of the points of my story, but itwas a name at least very well known and often printed. The figurewas stiff; but the signature was good for more than that if it wasonly genuine. I took the liberty of pointing out to my gentlemanthat the whole business looked apocryphal, and that a man doesnot, in real life, walk into a cellar door at four in the morningand come out with another man's cheque for close upon a hundredpounds. But he was quite easy and sneering. 'Set your mind atrest,' says he, 'I will stay with you till the banks open and cashthe cheque myself.' So we all set of, the doctor, and the child'sfather, and our friend and myself, and passed the rest of thenight in my chambers; and next day, when we had breakfasted, wentin a body to the bank. I gave in the cheque myself, and said Ihad every reason to believe it was a forgery. Not a bit of it. The cheque myself, and said Ihad every reason to believe it was a fellow that nobody could have to do with, a really damnable man; and the person that drew the cheque is thevery pink of the proprieties, celebrated too, and (what makes itworse) one of your fellows who do what they call good. Black mailI suppose; an honest man paying through the nose for some of thecapers of his youth. Black Mail House is what I call the placewith the door, in consequence. Though even that, you know, is farfrom explaining all," he added, and with the words fell into avein of musing. From this he was recalled by Mr. Utterson asking rathersuddenly: "And you don't know if the drawer of the cheque livesthere?" "A likely place, isn't it?" returned Mr. Enfield. "But Ihappen to have noticed his address; he lives in some square orother." "And you never asked about the--place with the door?" saidMr. Utterson. "No, sir: I had a delicacy," was the reply. "I feel verystrongly about putting questions; it partakes too much of the styleof the day of judgment. You start a question, and it's likestarting a stone. You sit quietly on the top of a hill; and awaythe stone goes, starting others; and presently some bland old bird(the last you would have thought of) is knocked on the head in hisown back garden and the family have to change their name. No sir, I make it a rule of mine: the more it looks like Queer Street, theless I ask.""A very good rule, too," said the lawyer. "But I have studied the place for myself," continued Mr.Enfield. "It seems scarcely a house. There is no other door, and nobody goes in or out of that one but, once in a great while, thegentleman of my adventure. There are three windows looking on the court on the first floor; none below; the windows are always shutbut they're clean. And then there is a chimney which is generallysmoking; so somebody must live there. And yet it's not so sure; for the buildings are so packed together about the court, thatit's hard to say where one ends and then "Enfield," said Mr. Utterson, "that's a good rule of yours." "Yes, I think it is," returned Enfield. "But for all that," continued the lawyer, "there's one point Iwant to ask: I want to ask the name of that man who walked overthe child." "Well," said Mr. Utterson. "What sort of a man is he to see?" "He is not easy to describe. There is something wrong with hisappearance; something displeasing, something displeasing, something down-rightdetestable. I never saw a man I so disliked, and yet I scarceknow why. He must be deformed somewhere; he gives a strongfeeling of deformity, although I couldn't specify the point. He'san extraordinary looking man, and yet I really can name nothingout of the way. No, sir; I can make no hand of it; I can'tdescribe him. And it's not want of memory; for I declare I cansee him this moment." Mr. Utterson again walked some way in silence and obviouslyunder a weight of consideration. "You are sure he used a key?" heinquired at last. "My dear sir ... "began Enfield, surprised out of himself. "Yes, I know," said Utterson; "I know it must seem strange. The fact is, if I do not ask you the name of the other party, itis because I know it already. You see, Richard, your tale hasgone home. If you have been inexact in any point you had bettercorrect it." "I think you might have warned me," returned the other with atouch of sullenness. "But I have been pedantically exact, as youcall it. The fellow had a key; and what's more, he has it still. I saw him use it not a week ago." Mr. Utterson sighed deeply but said never a word; and theyoung man presently resumed. "Here is another lesson to saynothing," said he. "I am ashamed of my long tongue. Let us make a bargain never to refer to this again." "With all my heart," said the lawyer. I shake hands on that, Richard." Wikipedia list article Mattel's fashion doll franchise Monster High features a variety of fictional characters are classified as Ghouls and the male characters are classified as Mansters. The characters are generally the sons and daughters, or related to monsters that have been popularized in fiction. The franchise's official website identifies six of the characters who have been introduced in the franchise's related media including the web/video and book series. In 2016, singer Lady Gaga's sister Natali Germanotta designed Zomby Gaga for the Monster High franchise as a partnership with the Born This Way Foundation.[1] Conception and development The initial characters were created by Garrett Sander and his twin brother Darren.[2] In researching the look, the Sander brothers went shopping with girls and noted they were buying goth fashion items such as skulls, chains, and black. They remarked that because the characters are monsters, they had more freedom to do things that ordinary kids could not do.[3] Other inspirations include children's interests in Tim Burton and Lady Gaga.[4] Kiyomi Haverly, Mattel's design vice president, said "Honestly, it was very surprising to us. We just noticed girls were into darker goth fashion." The dolls were created by Garrett Sander and illustrated by Kellee Riley.[4][5] Other doll designers include Rebecca Shipman and Natalie Villegas.[6][7] Main characters This section may be written from a fan's point of view, rather than a neutral point of view. (July 2017) (Learn how and when to remove this template message) Six of the Monster High characters have been classified as Original Ghouls by the official website.[8] Frankie Stein (voiced by Kate Higgins in 2010–15,[a] Cassandra Morris in 2016–present[9][10]) is the daughter of Frankenstein's monster and his bride and the granddaughter of Victor Frankenstein's (since Victor had built her parents). Frankie is the sweetest and kindest girl at Monster High. Apart from being kind and generous, she is very optimistic and never gives up in the face of adversity. However, since all of her prior knowledge about teen relationships came from magazines, she can be a bit naive and inexperienced in teenage issues. Being a Frankenstein's monster herself, Frankie is portrayed as having light green skin and her body being stitched together. Because of this, her arms and legs can be detached from her body and still move, which she has used several times to help her friends. However, sometimes her limbs can still fly off suddenly when she is tense, scared or angry. To function, she is powered by electricity and has to be recharged every night. Her electricity is concentrated in two bolts at her neck that she often uses for self-defense or to power electronics in a pinch, although she sometimes accidentally shocks people. One of the most distinguishing characteristics of Frankie is that she has heterochromia--- her right eye is green. She also has white hair streaked with black and her fringe is pulled back and clipped. On school days she typically wears a seifuku coupled with a tie, gingham pattern and monochrome platforms. Her love interest is Neighthan Rot. Draculaura (voiced by Debi Derryberry)[11] is the daughter of Count Dracula and is 1,600 years old. She is described as bright, optimistic and ambitious.[12] Despite being a vampire, she is a vegar who consumes fruits, vegetables and "a lot of iron supplements" instead of blood.[12] Mattel vice-president of design Kiyomi Haverly said "She's a vegan. She's turned off by meat. Girls could really relate to that because that's part of what they're thinking of these days."[13] She is initially 1,599 years old and turns 1,600 in the webisode "Party Planners" and the film Why Do Ghouls Fall In Love, with Mattel releasing a doll line based around her birthday. Her original name was Ula D. as filed in the trademark by Mattel back in 2007.[14][15] Draculaura currently dates Clawd, Clawdeen's older brother, and has a pet bat named Count Fabulous. As can be seen from her clothes and closet, her favorite color is pink. Draculaura is one of the most popular ghouls at school, due to her friendliness. In Frights, Camera, Action, Draculaura ends up getting her vampire with black hair and pink streaks running through it. On school days, she secures her hair into pigtails and wears a pink boots. Due to her birthday being on Valentine's Day Draculaura has a pink heart tattoo at the corner of her left eye. From her hobby of dressing Count Fabulous up in

Draculaura originally lived with her father on a mansion on a hill overlooking Normie Town. Wanting to have friends like her, she talked her father into opening Monster High. Clawdeen Wolf (voiced by Salli Saffioti)[16] is the daughter of the Werewolf. She is 15 years old and has a large family; two of her siblings Clawd and Howleen are currently studying in Monster High with her, and her older sister Clawdia has graduated and is a working adult. She has the best fashion designer.[17] Being Draculaura's best friend, she is very protective of her, as well as Clawd and Howleen despite often bickering with them. Clawdeen is portrayed as a brown-skinned werewolf with chocolate brown curly hair and pierced ears. On school days, she wears a leopard-print top, a leather jacket and a purple miniskirt paired with matching stockings and grey platform boots. Clawdeen's greatest strengths are her physical capabilities of being a werewolf --- she possesses immense strength and speed, especially during the full moon, but this also makes her prone to bad moods and a fiery temper. She has a purple pet kitten named Crescent.[18] Cleo de Nile (voiced by Salli Saffioti)[16] is the daughter of the Egyptian mummy named Ramses de Nile. Cleo is the most popular ghoul in school. Apart from being popular, she is also the student council president of Monster High, and captain of the Fearleading Squad. Being a Mummy and preserved for many years, her appearance is that of a 16-year-old girl but is actually over 3,000 years old. While her profile lists her as 3,357 years old,[19] previous iterations as well as the videos had shown her true age to be 5,842 years old.[20] Her boyfriend is Deuce Gorgon.[19] Cleo is portrayed as a beautiful auburn-skinned girl with rich black hair and gold highlights. Her top and bottoms are the residue of her Egyptian Mummy bandages, which she adds style to with glittery blue stripes and bandages ribbons. characteristic is her blue rhinestone tiara and large gold earrings, a sure sign of her royal heritage. Cleo's personality is a little spoiled, and much of a diva, priding herself greatly on her popularity, fashion sense, as well as the many amulets her family pyramid houses. However, she is secretly very caring and sweet to her friends. Cleo's catchphrase is: "Oh my RA!" Ghoulia Yelps Ghoulia Yelps Ghoulia Yelps (vocal effects provided by Audu Paden) is the bespectacled daughter of a zombie couple and Cleo's personal assistant and best friend. She has a pet baby blue owl named Sir Hoots-a-Lot. The smartest ghoul at Monster High, Ghoulia is a shy and bookish girl, but Cleo de Nile refuses to let her be the wallflower at a party. She can only speak in the zombie language (moans and groans) due to physical limitations that all zombies have. Ghoulia's social life has improved greatly since befriending Cleo. She is the shortest girl at Monster High. Part of this may be because as a zombie, she never stands up straight. Ghoulia has a romantic interest in Slo-Moe, a tall male zombie on the chess team. Ghoulia is well known to be a hardcore fan of "Dead Fast", an in-universe comic book series. She also has a love for the game of dodgeball. Her favorite color is red. Although introduced as one of the six Original Ghouls, [21] she was no longer listed among them following the 2016 reboot of Welcome to Monster High.[22][23][24] Lagoona Blue (voiced by Laura Bailey in 2010-2015, Larissa Gallagher in 2016-Present) is the daughter of the Gill-man Wade Blue and a sea nymph, who is all fish. She is a kind and loving girl, with a tomboyish style to her clothes, and has problems with Gil's parents due to her sea-monster heritage. However, they started to like her only for being a freshwater monster when she turned into one from Howleen's wish in "13 Wishes". Lagoona is a kind and friendly ghoul who loves swimming. She also loves Gloom Beach and playing water-volleyball. She is dating Gillington "Gil" Webber. Her childhood best friend was Kala Mer'ri, who turns out to be the daughter of the Kraken. Ghouls The female characters in Monster High are referred to as Ghouls. The following have been listed on the Monster High official website: Abbey Bominable (voiced by Erin Fitzgerald (2011-2015), Cristina Milizia (2017-present)[25][26] is the daughter of the Yeti. She has white hair with blue, pink and purple streaks; and blue skin. She has a baby wooly mammoth named Shiver.[27] She is mostly alongside Ghoulia Yelps as her translator. Amanita Nightshade (voiced by Heather Moiseve)[28] is a plant monster who is titled the "bad seed of the Corpse Flower". She has purple hair and light green skin.[29] She is very vain and likes being the center of attention. In the episode "Bad Tomb-mates", she reveals that she and Cleo were rivals. She blooms once every 1300 years; when she came out, the villagers gifted her to the De Nile family and she became tomb-mates with Cleo. However, she has a habit of "borrowing" people's stuff and later disappearing.[30] Her doll debuted in 2015.[31] Ari Hauntington Ari Hauntington (voiced by Jonquil Goode)[32] is the daughter of ghosts. She has purple hair with pale grey eyes and translucent pale white skin. She dresses in bohemian-style clothing. She is a pop singer who inspires monsters to be themselves.[33] In the cartoons, she first appeared in the Welcome to Monster message) The following male characters in Monster High are referred to as Mansters: Clawd Wolf (voiced by Ogie Banks, [26]) is the son of a werewolf who is also the seventeen-year-old brother of Clawdeen, Howleen, and Clawdia. According to "Bat Dialing Disaster", he has already had his birthday, which must officially make him eighteen years old. He is the oldest child still living in his parents' house. He dated Cleo prior to Frankie attending Monster on Campus and plays on the casketball team with Deuce. He owns a pet gargoyle bulldog named Rockseena. He is also overprotective of his sisters Clawdeen and Howleen according to "Fright On!". Despite being long-time friends since younger youth, he finally falls for Draculaura in Volume 2, and she did the same thing for him, but first. Clawd has dark brown fur and bright yellow eyes. Deuce Gorgon Deuce Gorgon (voiced by Yuri Lowenthal in Volume 3, Evan Smith for the rest of Volume 3, Evan Sm member of the casketball team. He also loves to cook and is quite a skilled chef, but he is too self-conscious to showcase his culinary ability to anyone. Deuce inherited his mother's ability to turn people into stone, though he has been able to control the effect so that it lasts for only about twenty-four hours. His petrifying stare does not work on gargoyles which he learns by bumping into Rochelle Goyle. He takes off his sunglasses only when he talks to her. In "Hiss-teria", he reveals that he accidentally petrified his first pet (a dragon named Smokey) when he was a young boy and the effect has lingered to the present day. Deuce is dating Cleo, who seems to always find new ways for him to spend all his money on her. Despite that, Deuce genuinely loves Cleo and wrote a song to express his feelings for her. His pet is a two-tailed rat which he named Perseus after Perseus who Medusa clashed with in her past. Understandably, Medusa is not amused. His favorite color is neon green, which neon green is the color of his hair and Neon Green eyes. His favorite food is "Greek Fusion" (his own creation). Deuce's first name is clearly, obviously named after part of Medusa's name by Sander, the "dus" part, such as "Meh-DEUCE-uh". Finnegan Wake Finnegan Wake Finnegan Wake is a merman who is the son of a mermaid. He is shown to be wheelchair bound on land which leads the ghouls to underestimate his abilities. Finnegan is shown to be a daredevil and thrill seeker who doesn't let his disability get in the way of what he wants to do.  gargovle from Scaris. France and son of a Gargovle who is Rochelle Govle's boyfriend. He now comes in a doll two-pack with Rochelle. His flowers are his "pets" and he is a perfectionist. Gillington "Gil" Webber (voiced by Yuri Lowenthal in Volumes One and Two. Evan Smith in later seasons, the CGI specials and Fright On!) is the son of two freshwater-river monsters and is Lagoona Blue's boyfriend. He was first introduced in the webisode "Blue Lagoona" and has made recurring appearances since. Gil is one of the top members on the swim team alongside Lagoona. When on land, Gil has to wear a water-filled helmet over his head in order to breathe, though "Hatch Me if You Can" and the Gloom Beach arc shows that he can be on land for a short period of time without it. Gil is from freshwater, which is why it is hard for him and Lagoona (who can survive in saltwater) to be together. Heath Burns (voiced by Yuri Lowenthal in Volume 1, Cam Clarke in the other volumes) is the teenage son of two Fire Elementals. In the Polish version of Monster High webisodes, his name is Ross Burla and in the French EU he is named Thomas Cramé. Heath was first seen as a background character in "Substitute Creature". In "The Hot Boy", he was shown to be Draculaura's short-lived crush. In "Fear Pressure", he mentions that Jackson is his human cousin, a possible reference to when many fans confused Heath Burns for Holt Hyde. Heath's first mention in the dolls' continuity is in Abbey's diary where he is constantly hitting on her with corny one-liners. Heath primarily serves as the comedy relief, being the butt of many physical jokes and the class clown. He and Abbey are now dating. He thinks she's

 "hot" and she likes that he "makes her laugh". He often calls Abbey "baby" which she corrects him over constantly, telling him her name is Abbey not Baby. In the first novel, Heath appears to be a RAD (monster) when he sneezes fire. He explains that his ability appeared when he turned fifteen. Starting out as gassy outbursts, Heath's ability is still dangerous. Heath has yellow skin, red eyes and orange hair that bursts into flame when he's excited. He's shown as being close friends with Manny Taur, the two are often seen hanging out together. Invisi Billy Invisi Billy Invisi Billy (voiced by Evan Smith) is the son of the Invisible Man. Invisi Billy can be seen as a bit of a prankster, but he can be kind and sweet, as in helping Rochelle Goyle with her dance in "Fright Dance". He loves drama, particularly special effects which are his forte. His girlfriend is Scarah Screams (who is also his BFF) as they got together in the webisode "Scarah-Voyant" thanks to Frankie. Catty Noir is also Invisi Billy's BFF. Invisi Billy's BFF. Invisi Billy first appeared as an April Fool's joke on Facebook, picturing an empty box with the blurb "How do you know I'm not in the box?" Since then, his character and design have been refined and changed. His doll has very pale blue/grey skin that fades to transparent blue are his feet. He has dark blue hair and grey eyes. His ears are both gauged, making him the first Monster High boy to have both ears pierced. books, Dr. Jekyll is his mother, Sydney Jekyll. His diary implies the original Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde were his grandfather and his mother seems to possess the ability to shift. In the web series, Jackson is related to Heath Burns (they are cousins) but through which parent hasn't been clearly explained. Jackson is depicted as a major nerd in the webisodes and specials, though he seems to possess a wicked sense of humor ("Oh I fit in... my locker, trash cans... you'd be surprised what those guys fit me into"). He is first mentioned in Draculaura's diary where he unsettles her father by telling him he needs to "drive a stake into something". Jackson has black hair with blond or yellow streaks. His eyes are blue. He wears glasses, has one eyebrow pierced and has a Yin Yang symbol tattooed between his shoulder-blades. Holt Hyde (also voiced by Cindy Robinson) is the alter-ego version of Jackson turns into when loud music plays (when he sweats in the Lisi Harrison novels). Originally in the diaries, it was the sun setting that triggered Jackson's transformation into his alter ego. His diary explains that the trigger is likely to change several times as he ages before finally settling. Holt on the other hand seems to be more fire elemental than normie. His skin is bright blue, his eyes are red and he has fiery-colored hair. He's depicted in the webisodes and specials as rather excitable and loud. He loves to DJ and is friends with Operetta. They tried to date once, but Holt's hot temper spoiled things. In the prom website event called "A Night in Scare-adise" on Monsterhigh.com he and Operetta attended prom together. Operetta was quoted as saying he "rocks my l'il ol' face off." Holt is often shown as a DJ at school dance events. He annotated Jackson's diary with sarcastic remarks. Like Jackson, Holt has a Yin Yang tattoo on his back and a pierced eyebrow. (His Swim Class doll is missing this detail however). In the books, his name is DJ Hyde. Jackson and Holt share a pet Chameleon named Crossfade. Neighthan Rot Neighthan Rot (voiced by Josey Montana McCoy) is one of the new "hybrid" students of Monster High. He is the son of a zombie (father) and a unicorn (mother). He has long black hair with blue, yellow, and red highlights in a ponytail, and he wears a colorful shirt and pants whose color splash patterns seem remincient of anatomical models. Neighthan is somewhat clumsy, but he is a social monster who loves hanging out with his beast friends. He doesn't like monsters judging other monsters based on their appearance in "Graveyard Grates". He looks a little less like a unicorn because he only has a tail, a horn, and rainbow hair. From his zombie side, he has grey zombie-skin, and a marking on the left side of his face around his eye. Neighthan has human legs and feet instead of horse-like legs and hooves. He has a blue unicorn-horn, and wears a ponytail with a strand of hair coming down the left side of his face. He also wears a T-shirt with a rib cage on it and difficult multi-colors. He has romantic feelings for Frankie Stein, which seems to be mutual. Neightan was designed by Garrett Sander.[6] Porter Geiss (nicknamed Paintergeist) (voiced by Todd Haberkorn) is a character in Monster High who debuts in the TV special "Haunted". He is the son of the Poltergeist and is an expert artist where he often gets in trouble with Haunted High instead. Sloman "Slo-Mo" Mortovitch (vocal effects provided by Audu Paden) is a zombie who was originally addressed as Moe "Slow Moe" Deadovitch instead throughout the series, before any dolls were released and before it was officially addressed on Monster High's website in the description of "Flowers for Slo Moe". He is Ghoulia's official boyfriend. Other characters Main characters from book series The following characters are exclusive to the book adaptions of this franchise: Melody Carver Melody Carver is the co-protagonist of the Monster High novels by Lisi Harrison. She and her family are from Beverly Hills and moved to Salem, Oregon to help with Melody's asthma. [218] Melody has just recovered from rhinoplasty that was meant to help her with her breathing, but is implied to have been mostly to please her parents' family image.
Melody's family is neighbors with Jackson Jekyll, whom Melody eventually dates. Melody is the one who reveals the truth behind Jackson's blackouts through a recording on her iPhone. Unfortunately, she forgets to delete it and it gets in the hands of Bekka Madden, a RAD hater and primary antagonist of the series. This video leads to the RADs community becoming exposed, Melody forming the NUDIs (Normies Uncool with Discriminating Idiots), and a documentary on their secret lives. At the end of the second novel, Melody learns from Manu, Cleo's father's aide, that she might be the daughter of Marina, a siren. This is confirmed at the end of the third novel. Melody develops the ability to persuade people to do whatever she asks with her voice. She also grows olive and blue feathers with gold tips. This inspires her to make a dress and jewelry out of them. Notes ^ Frankie Stein's singing voice in New Ghoul @ School is done by Allison Iraheta ^ Alternative spellings for Kjersti Trollson and Kjersti Trollson and Kjersti Trollson.
